MEDEF's Paris Conference on Sudan

On May 17, 2021, MEDEF held its Conference on Sudan in Paris, France and brought together political leaders, banking representatives and corporate executives from different sectors to discuss investment opportunities in Sudan. Organised by French President, Emmanuel Macron, the Conference encouraged private investors to return to Sudan as it emerges from three decades of isolation and rebuilds its shattered economy. President Macron invited Sudan's bilateral creditors to help lighten Sudan's debt burden. Germany and Norway were among the other Paris Club members to join France and US in this effort.¹

At the conference, the French Government announced its decision to provide a $1.5B bridge loan to Sudan to settle arrears with the IMF. Saudi Arabia expressed its readiness to forgive $4.5 billion of its loans to Sudan². Additionally, the World Bank is set to provide the country with a $2 billion grant for economic development initiatives. UN Secretary-General, António Guterres, urged leading countries to aid Sudan in "consolidating its democratic transition, rebuild its economy and deliver sustainable peace and development for all its diversity."³

Since its designation as a State Sponsor of Terror (SST) was rescinded by the U.S., Sudan has demonstrated resolve to rejoin the international community and the Conference confirmed that major countries globally are ready to support this resolve and invest in Sudan. As well, the private sector represented at the Conference expressed strong interest in Sudan as an emerging market ready to welcome foreign private investment in all sectors of the economy. Richard Clark, President and CEO of Orca Gold Inc., was invited to speak on behalf of the emerging mining industry in Sudan as part of the Energy and Mining segment of the Conference alongside executives from General Electric, Siemens Energy and Baker Hughes – see Photos in News Release.

"We have been quiet but very busy and effective since Sudan came off the SST list," commented Richard Clark, President & CEO of Orca Gold Inc. "I have made multiple trips to Sudan since the beginning of the year and have forged a strong relationship with the new Cabinet of the government of Sudan. I wish to extend my appreciation and gratitude to his Excellency Dr. Mohamed Bashir Au Numo and his ministerial colleagues for their strong support to date and look forward to working closely with them to advance Block 14 towards production. It was an honor to be invited to attend MEDEF's conference in Paris. I was delighted to see the serious interest in and commitment to political stability and economic growth expressed by both the government and private sectors represented at the Conference. For Orca, the Conference showcased our Block 14 project as the principal mining investment opportunity in Sudan, ready for immediate development and demonstrating extremely strong economics. We are already seeing benefits from this exposure with increased interests in Block 14 as an investment opportunity. We are
